SOX: What is it good for: Money well spent?

Hear a CFO’s perspective on the challenges and benefits of implementing and complying with Sarbanes - Oxley.

Fraud: How to Fool the Auditors and Catch the Evildoers

This portion of the seminar will address differences between forensic auditing and traditional auditing. The segment will stress how traditional auditing techniques oftentimes fail to detect fraud and discuss various techniques used by forensic accountants to catch evildoers.

Responding to Change: Personal and Organizational Choices

In this highly interactive session, based on the research underlying Dr. Noer’s best selling books, Healing the Wounds and Breaking Free, you will learn the impact of downsizing and mergers on the survivors – those who remain in organizations. You will learn the four ways individuals and organizations respond to change and transition. You will have the opportunity to assess your own and your organization’s response pattern and establish strategies to facilitate individual and organizational learning.
I look forward to attending the Elon University Continuing Professional Education Seminar.
