Class of 2014 graduates of the Department of World Languages & Cultures can be found working and earning advanced degrees at prestigious graduate schools throughout Spain, France, North Carolina, Massachusetts, Georgia, and Washington D.C.

In Their Own Words

“Career Services has been extremely helpful in my efforts to find a job abroad. In addition to helping me edit my resume in a way that would highlight my international experience, they taught me how to utilize a variety of online resources with international job listings.”

Lily Siegal
Class of 2014

Sample Employers

- Council on International Education Exchange (CIEE) Teach Abroad
- GlaxoSmithKline
- Gobierno de Espana
- Optoro
- Scituate High School
- Teach for America
- The French Ministry of Education and the Cultural Services Department

Sample Position Titles

- Account Manager
- Customer Care Specialist
- Senior Scientist
- Teacher
- Teaching Assistant
- Executive Assistant

Sample Graduate Schools

- American University
- Loyola University of Maryland
- New York University- Institute for French Studies

Academic Internships

- Center for New North Carolinians
- Elon in Costa Rica
- Fulbright Program
- Jordanian Embassy
- Middle East Policy Council
- National Council on US-Arab Relations

*Data regarding employers, position titles, and graduate schools represents information from the classes of 2013 and 2014.

Number of respondents: 6