NCOCG News

Jonathan Jones named new NCOGC director

In mid-August, Jonathan D. Jones, formerly an assistant district attorney for Durham County, became the director of the North Carolina Open Government Coalition and Sunshine Center. His duties will include working with the coalition's board to organize the state’s annual Sunshine Day, advising citizens about open government issues, producing webinars or workshops around the state, handling communication for the coalition, and finding new ways to inform North Carolina citizens of the value and processes of open government in the state. He follows Brooke Barnett as the center's director.

Read more about Jonathan and his plans for the center here: http://www.elon.edu/e-net/Article/73033

SAVE THE DATE: The NCOGC will hold its fall board meeting from 12-1:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 10 in Elon University’s School of Communications. Come meet new director Jonathan Jones and talk about the coalition’s initiatives moving forward. If you're unable to attend the meeting in person, please dial 877-860-3058 and use passcode 7201493# to join the discussion remotely.

Private university records now more open under N.C. law
Earlier in the summer, Gov. Pat McCrory signed a bill that makes private college and university police records more open under the law. Here’s a roundup of that coverage:

Fayetteville Observer: http://www.elon.edu/e-net/Article/72698 and http://www.elon.edu/e-net/Article/73046
Elon Local News: http://www.elon.edu/e-net/Article/72865
WRAL.com: http://www.elon.edu/e-net/Article/72867
Burlington Times-News: http://www.elon.edu/e-net/Article/72869
The Pendulum: http://www.elon.edu/e-net/Article/72871

Lawsuit claims Carolinas HealthCare System violated public record law
Charlotte Observer: A Charlotte attorney contends in a lawsuit that one of the nation’s largest public hospital chains, Carolinas HealthCare System, has violated the state public records law by keeping secret the terms of a legal settlement.

For more information visit: http://www.elon.edu/e-net/Article/73916

Judge dismisses public records suit filed against Carolinas HealthCare System
Charlotte Observer: A judge has dismissed a lawsuit alleging that Carolinas HealthCare System, one of the nation’s largest public hospital systems, has broken the state public records law.

For more information visit: http://www.elon.edu/e-net/Article/74311

WBPD complies with ACLU concerns

Lumina News: With the release of results from the American Civil Liberties Union of North Carolina’s public records requests from the 11 law enforcement agencies currently using Automated License Plate Recognition Systems, ACLU of N.C. communications director Mike Meno said the organization hopes to inform citizens about the relatively new technology.

Read more at: http://www.elon.edu/e-net/Article/74396

Metadata as a public record: what it means, what it does

Digital Media Law Project: The failure to comply with a records request for email metadata will cost a Washington city more than half a million dollars in statutory and attorney's fees, a Washington Superior Court judge recently decided.

Read the full story at: http://www.elon.edu/e-net/Article/74437

Boone stalls on records request

Watauga Democrat: Boone town officials have rewritten the definition of the word, “prompt.”

Read the full story at: http://www.elon.edu/e-net/Article/75561

Ethics complaint filed against Charlotte City Council

WCNC.com: our former reporters who sued over closed door meetings between the Charlotte City Council and Carolina Panthers Owner Jerry Richardson have now filed an ethics complaint saying the meetings violated North Carolina Open Records laws.

Read the full story at: http://www.elon.edu/e-net/Article/75895

Health department’s copy fees questioned

Wilson Times: Wilson County’s interim health director said he’ll consider revising policies for public records requests that may violate state law.

Read the full story at: http://www.elon.edu/e-net/Article/76839

---

SOCIAL MEDIA: Please follow us on Twitter at http://twitter.com/ncopengov to receive up-to-date open government news. Also, don’t forget to “like” us on Facebook at https://www.facebook.com/ncopengov.

You can also now download our open government app on your Android, iPhone and tablet devices.

WEBSITE: If you haven’t been to www.ncopengov.org recently, make a point to head our way. Read about the latest open government news and learn more about our sunshine laws, particularly if you’re a holder or seeker of public records.
Sun-e Briefs are a service of the Sunshine Center made possible through a grant from the Knight Foundation. This monthly news update will keep you in the open-government loop by bringing you news about access issues from across the state and updates on the Sunshine Center and North Carolina Open Government Coalition. Coming to you from Elon University, home of the Sunshine Center, we think you’ll find Sun-e Briefs a valuable addition to your inbox. If you would like to contact us to let us know about a story or to remove your name from our list, please write ncopengov@elon.edu.

© 2013 N.C. Open Government Coalition
Elon University
School of Communications
CBX 2850
Elon, NC 27244
(336) 278-5506
ncopengov@elon.edu