School of Education Position Announcement

The Department of Education at Elon University invites applications for an Assistant Professor of Education (tenure-track) in special education beginning mid-August 2017. The successful candidate must hold an earned doctorate in special education (preferred) and a record of collaborative work in diverse public school settings is highly desirable. Desirable candidates might also have additional expertise in low-incidence disabilities, autism, and transition.

The successful candidate will demonstrate a commitment to excellence in teaching with evidence of active student engagement. Responsibilities include teaching undergraduate and graduate special education and elementary education courses, supervising teacher candidates, and teaching in Elon’s Core Curriculum Program. Candidates must demonstrate a record of, or potential for, a program of scholarly activity in special education.

Elon is a dynamic private, co-educational, comprehensive institution that is a national model for actively engaging faculty and students in teaching and learning. To learn more about Elon, please visit us at www.elon.edu. For more information about the department and its curriculum, please visit our website: www.elon.edu/education.

For full consideration, review of applications will begin on October 21, 2016. Applications must include letter of application, current vita, teaching philosophy, three letters of reference, and all transcripts. All materials must be sent electronically to: Dr. Stephen Byrd, Special Education Search Committee Chair at specialedsearch2016@elon.edu

New employees paid by direct deposit only.

Elon University is an equal opportunity employer committed to a diverse faculty, staff, and student body and welcomes all applicants.